

ENVIRONMENT

I think that environment is very important for person's life.

Environment that we live in today is polluted, and the biggest pollutants are people. In past, people started using natural resources a lot because they thought that they can't be spent, but that's not true and we're running out of resources. A lot of species of plants and animals have come extinct because of people, so we have to protect what's left of it.

Big factories, cars, airplanes and others are letting out a lot of dangerous gasses into our atmosphere. Greenhouse gasses create ozone holes and acid rains which are seriously dangerous for rainforests. Except of air, we also pollute seas with oil spills which are really deadly wails, fish and other unique species in the sea.

We should think about our future and what it holds if we keep polluting the Earth. We should also think about the people who are coming on this planet after us. People should take more care about the environment they live in, they shouldn't throw garbage from their homes into seas, they should recycle more, separate glass from plastic and use special garbage cans for different kinds of trash. People should put more attention into preserving our world until it's too late. We should bring new changes and make better decisions in the future because we choose in what kind of environment are we going to live in. We are all together on this planet so we should all together take care of it.
