

Today there is a lot of discussing about environment. We, the people should in any possible way try to preserve the environment as much as possible. Each of us affects the environment in different ways. Someone in a good, but some unfortunately in a bad way. Our actions on the environment affect the entire planet. At the beginning of the earth's existence, life on earth has been a lot nicer. There were no factories, cars, gas, fuel and such polluting things.

Light is one of the most important factors on earth, because it is the only source that gives a yellow light, which is essential for the development of the individual. It affects seed germination, plant growth and physiological processes. Light is an essential element of health and well-being, because the organism uses it in many metabolic processes.

Sustainable development is a development that meets the needs of today's generation without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their needs. This means that in deciding and implementing activities, which each organization creates, should systematically take into account economic and social factors and factors related to environmental protection.

Sustainable development is determined by ethical principles in relation to natural resources, their fair distribution between rich and poor countries, and the present and future generations. It also sets out specific guidelines for the reduction of certain activities in certain countries that are plaguing the global environment.

Solar energy enables production using thermal machines. Once produced its application limited human imagination. Part of the list applying sun includes space heating and cooling in solar construction, drinking water distillation and disinfection, lighting, solar hot water, solar heating for cooking, high temperature industrial water.

Tourism in one sense is good, and in other very dangerous. It is good because it spreads different cultures around the world and bad because today more accidents happen. Especially since ISIS began to threaten the world.
